This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

The number of separate publications issued from the Government Printing Office during the year 1886, was 8,562, including the Reports made to Congress by its Committees and by the Executive Departments, and excluding Bills and Resolutions.

The number of copies of all publications printed during the fiscal year 1885–'86, was 34,486,926,* at a cost, including engraving and binding, of $1,038,449, or an average of three cents per copy.

This remarkable statement would not seem to warrant the belief that extravagant methods prevail in the administration of the Government Printing Office. That a considerable amount of the material printed is ultimately worthless is quite true, but it is not always possible to determine in advance the probable demand for an official document. The cost of the wasted material is largely offset by the increased cost that would be incurred in reprinting such documents as in special exigencies might be required. The supply of important publications seldom equals the demand. Of course the "demand" exists to a larger extent under the system of free distribution than it would if it were known that the supply was limited to the absolute requirements of legislation. If beyond this requirement, and a sufficient number to cover a generous free distribution to public libraries, a small edition of every publication were printed for the use of the public, to be supplied at cost price, and publication officially announced, it is not at all likely that one-quarter of the "extra" copies now ordered printed would ever be needed. What publishing house would think of printing an edition of 20,000† copies of a scientific or, with rare exceptions, even an historical work? And why should the Government?

* Report of the Public Printer, 1886, page 19.

† 20,400 copies of the Fifth Annual Report on the U. S. Geological Survey were printed.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

MONTHLY CATALOGUE.

VOL. 2. WASHINGTON, D. C. NOS. 1-3.

JANUARY, FEBRUARY, MARCH, 1886.

The fifth annual report of the Director of the United States Geological Survey, with accompanying papers, has been issued. Also, the ninth volume of monographs. In this connection attention is called to a large mass of testimony before the joint commission appointed by Congress to consider the present organization of the Signal Service, Geological Survey, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Hydrograpic office of the Navy Department. A portion of the Commission recommends material abridgment in the scope of the work of the Geological Survey; but it is not yet apparent whether Congress will approve the recommendation. The "testimony" however, is highly interesting and instructive.

In the summer of 1884, the President appointed a scientific commission to conduct a national conference of electricians in connection with the International Electrical Exhibition under the auspices of the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia. The Commission has submitted as their report the Proceedings of the National Conference of Electricians, held September 8-13, 1884.

The report of Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, of his military reconnoissance from Chilkoot Inlet to Fort Selkirk, Alaska, in the summer of 1883, has been printed (121pp., maps and other illustrations). Following the narrative is an account of the native Indian tribes. The maps, twenty in number, are important additions to the cartography of that region, being drawn after actual surveys made by the party.

"Art and Industry" is the title of a volume (1100 pp.) by Isaac Edwards Clarke, who, at the request of the Commissioner of Education, has elaborated a work on instruction in drawing applied to the industrial and fine arts, as given in the colleges and public schools of the United States. Mr. Clarke has been engaged in this investigation since the Centennial Exhibition of 1876; but so rapid have been the changes in public opinion upon all matters relating to art, as well as the development of new artistic industries, he found it next to impossible to keep step with the art progress of the country! Three additional Parts, or volumes will follow.

Notwithstanding the slow progress made in passing through Congress the "Blair Educational Bill," there comes from Mr. Sheldon Jackson, "General Agent of Education in Alaska," a report on the education of the nation's wards in that distant territory. The sum of $25,000 provided in the organic act, enabled the agent to establish nine schools at distances from 100 to 1000 miles apart. A "brief survey of the country," and a narrative of two "explorations" make up fully one-half of this volume, which is also well illustrated.

In view of the proposed enlargement of the naval establishment of the United States, the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Navy and the report of the select committee on Ordnance and War-ships possess unusual interest. They include "Modern Armor for National defense," by Lieut. Jaques, and "Torpedo warfare," by the same writer and Lieut. Very. Also, Senator Hawley's account of a visit to the ordnance establishments of England; the report of the Naval Advisory Board on mild steel; and the report of the Chief of Ordnance U. S. N.

The Annual Report of the Chief of Engineers U. S. A. (4 vols.) embraces the reports of the Engineer Corps on surveys and public works in various parts of the country.

Under the supervision of Mr. Clarence King, there has been brought together (U. S. Census, 1880, vol. xiv) all the federal, state and territorial mining laws, and regulations thereunder; and (for the first time), the local district rules and regulations enacted by the various mining organizations. The latter are of extreme value, "as covering the inception of a very large number of titles to important properties." The errors and grammatical construction of the crude original records have been closely followed.

The Department of Agriculture adds several publications to the scientific literature of the Government, notably an illustrated report on insects affecting the orange and other plants of the citrus family, by H. G. Hubbard, from investigations carried on in Florida since 1881.

The first annual report of Mr. Carroll D. Wright will interest those who have looked for good results from the proper organization of a Bureau of Labor.

Congress having failed to order the printing of the Statistical Abstract for 1884 prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department, the material for that number has been consolidated with that for 1885, and published in one volume as the seventh and eighth numbers.

On the subjects of Finance and the Tariff the Treasury Department Documents afford an unusual amount of valuable information.

The question is frequently asked, How are Government publications to be obtained?

The books or pamphlets published by any Department, and not as Congressional Documents, are presumed to be for the use of such Department. The "use" may be, either general distribution, or distribution only to officers of the Government working under such Department. In the former case, those who apply are usually accommodated; in the latter, a request is frequently unheeded; but in both cases public institutions are favored rather than individuals.

All Congressional Documents are absolutely free, and may be obtained through any member of Congress, or the Secretary of the Senate, or the Clerk of the House of Representatives. The number printed is not always the same. The regular edition consists of 1950 copies, but extra copies of documents of supposed interest are sometimes ordered, in numbers varying all the way from 500 copies to 300,000. These are apportioned among the members of the two Houses of Congress, and usually a liberal supply in addition is voted to the Department or Office making the report. In a very small number of instances an edition is ordered printed for sale, but the same works are found in the quotas of the members.

All those who prefer not to ask favors, as well as those who have exhausted their credit by calls too frequent, and have wearied both Congressmen and the Departments, can be supplied through any reputable bookseller, or the editor of this journal will afford such aid as he is able.

This journal, issued monthly, contains a catalogue of all the latest publications of the U. S. Government. It includes the books and pamphlets printed by the Departments and Bureaus of Departments; of Commissions and Organizations which publish special works not included in the reports transmitted to Congress, all the documents issued during the sessions of Congress, all public and private Acts, Treaties, Maps and Charts.

The titles are arranged alphabetically in each number, and under authors' names as far as practicable. At the same time the Departments, Bureaus and Commissions are credited with the works issued under their supervision. Where the subjects treated are of sufficient public interest, titles are repeated under the topics referred to.

The price of subscription in the United States is $2.00 per annum; outside of the United States $2.50, including postage.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE.

VOL. 2. WASHINGTON, D. C. Nos. 4-5-6.

APRIL, MAY, JUNE, 1886.

THERE was transmitted to Congress in December, 1883, by the Chief of Engineers, U. S. A. a detailed report of the Commissioner (Capt. G. M. Wheeler) to the third International Geographical Exhibition and Congress at Venice in 1881. In 1885, this report with the accompanying illustrations was ordered printed in quarto form, and the volume (586pp.) has recently appeared. It contains a description and discussion of geographical exhibits from twenty-two countries; a summary of the scope and progress of the discussion touching the establishment of a common initial meridian and uniform standard time; also, information concerning the origin, organization, functions, history and progress of the topographic, hydrographic and geologic surveys of several governments, with lists and samples of published maps. This information relating to the works of more than thirty foreign countries was drawn largely from translations of official publications and from original memoirs prepared by several chiefs of surveys. It exhibits the results of the organized and effective surveys of the various governments of the world, and as far as practicable the cost.

The Commission appointed to consider means for securing greater efficiency in the administration of the Geologic Survey, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Hydrographic Office, and Signal Service, has made reports based in a measure upon the testimony offered. (Sen. Mis. Doc. 82, Sen. Rep. 1285, and House Rep. 2740). The investigation covered a very wide range, but failed to impress Congress with a necessity for radical changes, as very slight modifications of the present system were sanctioned by that body.

In connection with the report on Ordnance and War Ships made by the select committee in February (Sen. Rep. 90), the report of the Board of Fortifications upon armor, torpedoes, torpedo-boats, ships of war, and the capacity of this country to furnish arms and guns, affords a vast fund of information on the present status of the defences of nations. In this connection a report on European dockyards by Philip Hichborn will be found of high interest. All these publications are profusely illustrated.

The Office of Naval Intelligence has issued number five of the General Information series. It is largely devoted to the subject of war ships, torpedo-boats and armor, with a chapter translated from French and German naval publications on the capture of the Pescadores Islands during the Franco-Chinese war in 1885.

The literature of the Nicaragua Canal has received an accession by a report on the work performed and the results accomplished by a surveying party under Civil Engineer A. G. Monacal, U. S. N., sent to Nicaragua in 1884 for the purpose of rectifying the location for an inter-oceanic canal previously made. It supplements the report made by Capt. E. P. Lull in 1872–73.

Two additional numbers (19 and 20) of Naval Professional Papers have appeared. The Bureau of Navigation has also issued supplements to its several hydrographic publications, covering the latest corrections and additional data.

Volumes 16 and 20 of the Census Reports of 1880 contain respectively, statistics of power and machinery employed in manufactures, and statistics of wages in manufacturing industries; also a chapter on trade societies, and a meagre account of "strikes."

The latest reports on scientific subjects include a Geological History of Lake Lahonton, Nevada, being the eleventh monograph of the Geological Survey, and Bulletin number 27 of the same Survey; Part eleven of the report of the Fish Commissioner for 1883 (long delayed); the fourth report of the Entomological Commission; a new (6th) edition of Prof. Riley's Manual on Silk Culture; the report of the National Museum for 1884; and eighteen Miscellaneous Publications of the Smithsonian Institution. Among the latter the writings of Thoroddsen and C. J. Rockwood, Jr., on earthquakes, are of special interest at this time.

The report of Mr. Henry White, of the U. S. Legation at London, on unclaimed estates in England, should effectually dispel the delusions of those foolish dupes in the United States who are throwing away money in pursuit of imaginary fortunes in Great Britain.

A most useful reference volume has been prepared by the Treasury Department, and recently published as Senate Executive Document No. 196, 47th Congress, 1st session. It is a statement of expenditures for public buildings, rivers and harbors, forts, arsenals, armories and other public works, since March 4, 1789. The arrangement of the work is such as to show the entire amount expended on every river and harbor, fort, public building, etc., through a series of years, with a recapitulation by States, and a general summary.

Other works of general interest are Records of the War, volumes sixteen (two parts) and seventeen; the second volume of the "Blue Book," 1885; the fourth volume of the Decisions of the Commissioner of the General Land Office; and a paper on physical training in colleges, by E. M. Hartwell.

During the closing hours of the last session of Congress a number of resolutions for extra copies of numerous publications passed the lower House, but the Senate failed to act upon them.

THIS journal contains a catalogue of all the latest publications of the United States Government. It includes the books and pamphlets printed by order of the Departments and Bureaus of Departments; of Commissions and Organizations which publish special works not included in the reports transmitted to Congress; all the documents issued by Congress, that is to say, the Executive Documents, Reports of Committees, Miscellaneous Documents, and Journals, and in addition, the titles of all public and private Acts, Treaties, Maps and Charts.

The arrangement of the titles is alphabetical, under the names of authors as regards special treatises, and under topics as regards congressional documents. At the same time the Departments, Bureaus and Commissions are credited with the works issued under their supervision.

The price of subscription in the United States is $2.00 per annum; outside of the United States $2.50, including postage.

The report of the proceedings and papers of the International Monetary Conference in Paris in 1878 and 1881, and Senator J. P. Dr. Francis Wharton (of the Department of State) has compiled, and Congress at its last session ordered printed a Digest of the International Law of the United States, taken from documents issued by the President and Secretary of State, Decisions of the Supreme Court, etc. The work is in three volumes (Senate Mis. Concerning two additional volumes of the Census (vol. 15 Mining Industries, and vol. 18 Social Statistics of Cities), it may be said that work exceptionally well done is deprived of a large part of its value by appearing for the first time seven years after date.

The arrangement of the titles is alphabetical, under the names of authors as regards special treatises, and under topics as regards congressional documents. At the same time the Departments, Bureaus and Commissions are credited with the works issued under their supervision.

The price of subscription in the United States is $2.00 per annum; outside of the United States $2.50, including postage.
